Grade 6 Up-A book filled with dozens of practical beauty tips, diet and fitness suggestions, and fashion hints. With an emphasis on the natural, the former fashion model guides readers through bad-hair days, fashion faux pas, and the makeup techniques of the stars. Most of the supplies can be found in the home, although some readers may have to make a trip to a health-food store. Throughout, the author encourages readers to appreciate who they are and how they look and to think positively. The layout is enhanced by varied font headings and print shades but there are no illustrations. (Visual learners may have difficulty envisioning the proper application of blush without a diagram to guide them through the process, etc.) Overall, this is a handy book for anyone wanting to experiment with budget-friendly makeup and skin-care techniques. Elaine Baran Black, Gwinnett

Diane Irons began her highly successful career as a model at age thirteen, then transferred her skills and expertise to training other up-and-coming models as well as directing major photo shoots and runway shows. As a leading force in the world of image, health and fitness, she is frequently featured on The View, Good Morning America, Entertainment Tonight, Inside Edition and CNN, and in publications worldwide.

This is a substantial book - 263 pages including 2 pages listing computer sites for additional resources and an 8 1/2 page index. It has real usable information and tips on many subjects as well as interesting things like skin, makeup and hair tips from celebrities. this will be a Christmas present for a 14 year old girl - after I read it first. :) :) :)

It's not what I had been hoping for in a beauty book. I was looking for something that gave my tween advice on appropriate make up tips for her age, and how to make her eyes look larger or highlight her cheekbones and style her crazy hair. It's an ok book but it didn't give the tips I wanted.

I bought this fr my daughter and she finds it very interesting and would like to buy it for her friends

GRAND DAUGHTER LOVES IT. SHE CHECKED THIS BOOK OUT FROM THE LIBRARY AND DECIDED SHE JUST HAD TO HAVE ONE FOR HERSELF.

Haven't gone through it yet but we assume its a good book since it received other good ratings. Hopefully the teen we bought it for enjoys it too.

I think that she liked this gift - I read through it and thought the tips were really good ones...I HOPE she reads the whole thing!

I found this in my library and then later, I just had to buy it.....this book has fantastic tips, something you would definitely want to keep around in your house.

I was hoping for some pictures, with more makeup application tips. This book has some good information, but it wasn't really what we were looking for.
