Used as a textbook for my Masters class. As an ELA teacher this is mostly information I already knew a bit about, though there were some worthwhile points that made me really think. For a content area teacher, this has a lot of great information about how to support students with reading without actually teaching reading per se, but strategically leveraging your content learning time with reading/writing/speaking/listening activities that will improve engagement and learning in the content areas.

I've used Robinson & McKenna in a graduate class of K-12 teachers and all of the responses of the teachers to this book is that the strategies recommended and the information provided about teaching disciplinary literacy and content area subject matter was very helpful to them.

Excellent condition but the price is ridiculous.

Great resource. Used for my credential program and it is one that I know I will continue to use in the classroom.
