Customer Reviews

Nancy Riegelman teaches fashion drawing and international design at Art Center College of Design in Pasadena, California and the Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising in Los Angeles, California. She is also a fine artist and has authored numerous books on fashion drawing and design. She lives in Los Angeles, California. --This text refers to an alternate Paperback edition.

I had Nancy as my teacher in college. We used her book. At the time I thought it was good but after purchasing so many other books only to be sadden of what it held. I noticed I compared it so much to Nancys books. Her stuff is great this book is outstanding. I always go back to it for a good read/review. Your money is def. worth spending on this book. Really useful info.

Awesome book, style is a little outdated though. Under guidance from a city college prof. and with this book, I was able to draw some pretty decent fashion sketches. Check them out @gabriella_briana (IG).

A little bit of everything. Very detailed.

Got this for my girlfriend, she enjoyed the book. She used it for class.

This is an amazing book, the condition of the book is excellent and it was shipped immediately upon purchasing it. Now if you've had some exposure to rendering in markers and colored pencils, you'll really like this book and for half the price point I purchased it at, you really can't beat it!

It's a great book. Couldn't expect less from Nancy Riegelman. Designing with markers is now easy and gives a whole new look to my drawings.

this book is SO SO SO USEFUL,if you are a beginner in fashion design or it doesnt matter if you are not, just buy this book. every single detail you need to be able to draw like a real fashion designer is included.and this book is also useful as this one,i insist you to buy it too,you wont regret!Ã 9 very good structured book. It can be used by a beginner, intermediate, or advanced level. In the beginning of the book it breaks down how to be used in accordance with the proficiency level.

Heads: A Guide to Drawing Fashion (3rd Edition)
