South Temple Street Landmarks: Salt Lake City S First Historic District

Synopsis

From the earliest days of settlement, South Temple was Salt Lake's most prestigious street. In 1857, William Staines built the Devereaux House, Salt Lake's first of many mansions. The once-bustling Union Pacific Depot eventually found itself increasingly isolated. Downtown's gleaming copper landmark overcame numerous hurdles before its construction was finally finished, and the Steiner American Building helped usher in acceptance of Modernist architecture. Evolving to reflect its continued prominence, in 1975, the thoroughfare's core became the city's first local historic district, and in 1982, it made the National Register of Historic Places. Author and historian Bim Oliver celebrates the changing landmarks along these famous eighteen blocks."

Customer Reviews

"For the history buff, the book provides information, illumination and plenty of old-time photos..."

Deseret News"Bim Oliver is one of my favorite local architectural historians. Oliver is as charming as he is knowledgeable on Salt Lake's favorite landmarks and lucky for us design buffs, he will be giving a reading of his new book..."
